George Stebbins in Trouble For Invading Mrs. Birckhead's Domicile. George Stebbins, of 1145 Fifth street porthwest, was charged in the police court yesterday with housebreaking in the night, the complainant being Mrs. Delilah Birckhead, his next door neighbor. The affair occurred Last October, since when Stebbins has been away from the city. It was not charged that he entered the house for the purpose of robbery. Mrs. Birckhead stated that about I o'clock on the morning charged she was awakened by a noise in the house and she got up, and, possessing herself of her husband's revolver, put it where she could easily reach it. Her husband was a way from home.

In a few minutes she heard the noise repeated, and with the revolver in her hand she descended the stairs expecting to see a burglar in the house. Instead she saw Stebhus lying on the partor floor, his hat

Games To-day Washington at Cincinnati. Bultimore at Chicago. Brooklyn at Lauisville.

(Special to The Times.) Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13 - After the fourth inning to-day there was discontent on the bewhiskered face of Manager Gus Schmeir, and the players' beach on which hesat grew warm as Gos fidgeted and moved. When the last man had retired in the ninth the doughty Senatorslooked glum and sullen and there was pain depicted on the countenance of every Washingtonian. For the sixth time this year the Texas Steerites had gone down before the Cininnati Reds, but on the other side of the ledger there are no victories posted. No wonder they were glum.

Just 4,383 people saw the Reds further clinch their held on fourth place and cheered Frank Dwyer as he mowed the heavy hitting Senators down with his curves that looked so casy and tantalizing and yet so hard to solve.

TOOK THE LEAD.

The same number grouned when Washington took the lead and again cheered when the Keds drove Mr. Al Maul from the rubber and demonstrated that they could win out even if a little lead had to be over-

It was a game not calculated to go down In history as one of the finest on record. Both sides piled up errors on apparently easy plays, and curiously enough they were sifted around among the players so that no one took more than one.

Maul was very effective up to the fourth and was very effective up to the fourth inning, when a bunt that no one could con-nect with, a beautiful cluster of three errors and a couple of bases on ball-allowed the Reds to tie the score.

After that Dwyer was invincible, while Mercer was thumped with clock-like regu-larity. The umpiring of Jim Galvin was simply terrible and both sides suffered equally.

Gaivin's eyesight is so bad that last night word was sent that Hank O'Day had been ordered to assist the "Old Sport" in to-morrow's game. The way the game was played to-day is told in the following: The Schators were sent to the bat and sebach was given his base on balls and stole second, taking third on Murphy's wild throw.

Joyce's out allowed Selbach to score. Hassamer flew out, and Cartwright fouled out to Murphy. Latham went out and Hoy waiked to first. He stole second squarely and the crowd roared when Galvin called him out. Decision McPhee doubled to left, but Ewing could not bring him in. VERY PRETTY PLAY. In the second inning McGuire and Glass-cock flew out and Crooks went out from McPhee to Dwyer on a very pretty play. didn't reach, and Dwyer covered first in time to receive McPhee's assist.

After Miller was out Smith singled to left and Hogriever's out advanced him a base, but Muroby struck out. base, but Murphy struck out.
Abbey singled, taking second on Miller's fumble. Maul sacrificed, and on Selbach's out Abbey scored. Joyce flew out.
Joyce fumbled Dwyer's grounder, but he was forced by Latham at second.

Hoy's hot fly was cared for by Crooks and Latham was threwn out when he at-tempted to steal second.

Hassamer made a scratch single to center for an orener is the fourth. for an opener in the fourth. Cartwright was saved by Latham's bad throw on an was saved by Latinan's tool troops of attempted sacrifice. Hassamer reaching third. On McGuire's fly Hassamer scored, but Glasscock and Crooks flew our. Maul helped the Reds out in their half, as he gave both McPhec and Ewing bases on balls to begin with balls to begin with.

Miller beat out a bunt toward third and Mail threw wild past second to catch Ewing asleep. McPhee scoring.

Smith and Hogriever went out, Ewing scoring, while Murphy was saved by Glass-cock's wild throw. Miller scoring on Cartwright's muff, two errors being made on noon served to keep many of the Iriends of the Analostan Boat Club away from the boathouse to witness the ciub's first regatta this season. Notwithstanding this there was a large attendance, the boathouse balcony being crowded with the fair friends of the club and their escurs to cheer the paramen on to do good work in the several events arranged by Capt. Moore.

The water was as smooth as glass and the day was an ideal one for rowing. The several crews were well-matched and, in consequence, the races were hotly contested and the finishes quite exciting and the spectators, of course, very enthustastic.

The races, except the eighth, were rowed over a mile course with one turn, starting and finishing directly opposite the boathouse. Here, as well as on the sides of the course, a number of pleasure boats of the three clubs paddled lessurely up and down, each Totals 33 4 7 27 11 1 laden with fair freight, whose bright, attractive costumes, lent color and brilliancy to the scene.

In addition the ten-oared barges of the Columbias, Potomacs, and Analostans swept up and down the course, adding animation to the picture. SHELLS SWING IN LINE. Promptly at 6:30 Capt. Moore and out
